

ANTHONY ORTIZ, C.A.S.

Production Sound Mixer

Member IATSE 695, 52 (NY) & 480 (NM)

Anthony Ortiz grew up in Bayamón, Puerto Rico. While attending the University of Sagrado Corazón in San Juan, he interned as a production assistant on a feature film and found himself gravitating toward the Sound department. When handed the Boom, Anthony took it with grace, eventually working on incoming productions from the mainland including Jacobs Ladder, Q & A and Captain Ron. Relocating to New York, Anthony worked as Utility or Boom for such acclaimed Directors as Woody Allen, Brian DePalma, Sidney Lumet and Penny Marshall. Later relocating again to Los Angeles, he continued to work on large Features including Seabiscuit, The Maze Runner, The Village, American Made and also international work on Mission Impossible: Rogue Nation, Eat Pray Love and The Mummy. These films took him to Europe, Southeast Asia, Mexico, South America and Africa. Anthony is a member of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Cinema Audio Society, and the Television Academy and three IA unions including West Coast, East Coast and New Mexico. While not on set, Anthony enjoys cooking and playing golf. Based in Los Angeles with his wife, who is a production Publicist, Anthony is happy to travel for work.
