Barry Markowitz was born in Brooklyn to Holocaust survivors. After graduating from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem he returned to New York where he entered the film industry, working his way up starting in a camera rental house. He ultimately became the respected Director of Photography perhaps best known as Rob Reiner's, Robert Duvall's and Billy Bob Thornton's first call cinematographer. Barry has shot many national and international commercials all over the world from Dubai to Italy and throughout the states. As a perk, he has learned to ask where the men's room is in numerous languages. Barry enjoys the short form commercial world and is used to moving quickly and commercials fast schedules. Barry continues to live in New York but is always game to travel.
