

DONAVAN DEAR, C.A.S.

Production Sound Mixer

Member, IATSE 695

Donavan Dear started mixing sound over 30 years ago while an engineering student working live to television and doing acoustic measurements for an acoustic company. This gave him a unique point of view about sound since he was doing some of the first 3D acoustic mapping research. This gave him a big advantage solving noisy sound environments in production sound. Early on, as a Boom Operator on the original CSI series, he earned two Emmy nominations and one win. His credits include a ten year run on CSI: Miami and an exciting and memorable season on Cameron Crowe's Roadies - an amazing sound series which got the biggest musical groups to sing live for every show. Everything was live, even the many acoustic music scenes with zero playback. A certified techno wiz, Donavan was the first sound mixer to use an all digital cart. He recently beta tested the latest digital multi-track recorder and new tiny digital wireless transmitters and prides himself on having the latest equipment. Donavan is Los Angeles based.
