

FELIPE "FLIP" BORRERO, C.A.S.

Production Sound Mixer

Member, IATSE 695 & 479

Felipe Borrero, or Flip as he prefers to be called, has been mixing sound since the late seventies. He's had the opportunity to work on a very diverse and long list of shows, both in Features and Television. His career started in New York City. In 1993 Flip moved to sunny Los Angeles and is currently based in Atlanta where he has lived and remained busy for several years. Flip won an Emmy Award for Outstanding Sound Mixing on HBO's acclaimed telefilm The Rat Pack. Flip enjoys alternating between Features and Television and has seen and adapted to the changes in both mediums as well as keeping up to date with constantly evolving sound technology. On set, Flip's philosophy of respect and admiration for all is one of the reasons he and his professional sound crew get repeat business and praise from producers, talent and directors. When not working, Flip enjoys kayaking, cooking for friends, meeting new people and of course watching films. Flip works Atlanta and Los Angeles local.
